MONTHLY REPORT OF THE RENO SCHOOLS

To the Honorable Board of School Trustees: GENTLEMEN—I herewith respectfully submit my report for the school month ending June 22, 1900. In lieu of the monthly honor rolls, a complete list of the promotions is given.

I personally examined all the pupils in reading during the month of June, and I am pleased to report that, as a whole, the reading was better than at any previous examination in ten years. There were thirty pupils graduated from the grammar department in June—the largest number that has ever completed the course at one time in Reno.

Of the thirteen High School graduates, I may say that many of them have most worthily completed the course of study, and that all are well equipped for college or university work. HAVE WE STATE PRIDE?

There is, and has been in the near past indications of State pride by Nevada that is assuring respecting their future. There is an evident tendency upward manifest in a more pronounced manner than has made its appearance at any time preceding the present. There is a disposition to become independent of the control of those whose efforts have been to keep the State subject to their will and to keep the people subject to their control and direction. The domination of these men has been a means used to retard prosperity by keeping the State in ruts made in its earlier history, when men were in it not to make homes, but to use it to become rich, and then remove to other places where civilization and culture are connected with life, and where society has charms worthy of the ambition there is in the minds of those who aspire to the higher relations in communities where refinement and the better sentiments in the race prevail.

When they went away they gave to the State a legacy that has continued to furnish whatever has been required to give to the State an undesirable reputation connected with the degrading designation of "rotten borough." These men are engaged now as they have been to continue their power over the people and the commonwealth, by like means used by them since they procured control through organized action. There is not anything which has given more evidence that a better and higher individuality is present than the tax lately imposed upon the people of Washoe county to aid the University to procure the required land for experiment station uses, which had become imperative to a maintenance of government work in connection with that institution of learning.

The tax has been paid by the people without a protest, and there is no danger to the success of the project to procure the funds needed to provide the land required for agricultural uses. The tax was special and was imposed upon the people in Washoe county for the use of the State. It did not have the required uniformity to make it legal and the levy was without authority. The law providing for the levy and collection of the tax had upon its face evidence of its invalidity. Its illegal features were well known, but not a word of complaint was made by any of the people about it.

When a community will submit to a known illegal tax for the benefit of a State, there is present in the people of the community a more than usual feeling favorable to better the conditions of the commonwealth where the people are. It required the courage of a Spartan to propose and a knowledge of the people to execute the project. Both of the required faculties were present in an executive mind there is among us. The writer has no personal knowledge respecting the person, and he is not at liberty to become a guesser. When a community submits to the imposition of a tax for the general good when volition is free, there must be present in the mind of the community at least two controlling principles—love for the commonwealth and a conviction of duty.

When it is ascertained that these principles are controlling in a people for good, the elements needed to govern upon moral principles are present. The remaining principle to constitute a governing people is, will to put in action the principles of love and duty. There has been some movement that leads to a conclusion that the will is present to make a self governing people, but its action has been desultory. There has been no logical sequence connected with any action by the people to procure the reins of government against a clique that has made it a business for more than a quarter of a century to dispose of government in its interests almost exclusively.

It is strange, but true, that the men who of all others should have taken an interest in good government have given over to a clique the political work necessary to procure it. Men who should take an interest in government seemingly have been quite as much interested in having the State remain as it has been, as members of the clique, from some unexplained cause, which brings the writer to an ever recurring conclusion that the men upon whose heads rest the weight of good government, are the industrious everyday workers in a community. They know the value of each dollar they earn. Those whose hands are hard with honest labor have been and will continue to be the defence of moral government. They are the men who fight the battles of the State at home and abroad. They support its pillars and keep its walls in repair. They bear its burdens while cliques and those who aid them have taken the direction of government into their hands for profit at the expense of those who have hard hands and sound heads. These men have been careless, but the time is upon them when they must act in their defence which will be the defence of the State, or they will suffer consequences that will cause them to pay severely for continued neglect. It is labor that suffers most from bad government and it is its duty to act in its defence and for the protection of itself. Will men who handle the tools of industry awaken and act intelligently, as they can act if they will, to provide the means for their protection by acting in harmony that they may succeed in bringing to their aid in life the protection they should receive through the means of honest government.

Now Is Carson's Turn to Crow.

Reno has been putting on all kinds of airs lately just because a few good mines have been uncovered in her near vicinity, and lately made Carson green with envy because her enterprising citizens dug up a petrified man who assays high in precious metals. California evidently understood the situation and has come to our rescue. Yesterday a California company filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State. The company incorporates under the name of the Pacific Fishing & Exploration company, and states that the purpose of a fid company is to catch, can and preserve salmon, also crabs and lobsters. They are to also catch whale and seal. The principal place of business is Genoa, on the Carson river.

Reno can now look forward to almost any old catch being made up the river and she will have to dig up a whole carload of petrifications to play even on our new incorporated company.—Appeal.

MINES AND MINING

Items About Nevada's Leading Industry Clipped From Exchanges.

John Obilovich has about 200 tons of Mary ore ready for the mill at Silver Peak, Esmeralda county.

Since the price of lead has partially recovered from the recent slump, the Hamilton mines here resumed shipping. The Homestake shipped 45 tons and the Young Treasures, 42 tons last week over the E. & P. railroad.

Suit has been commenced against W. W. Williams of Churchill county, in the Justice court of Maricopa township, Elko county, to recover $200 for an alleged trespass of Williams' sheep, which have been ranging in that vicinity.

Close on the heels of the gold strike which was made in the Chairman mine about three weeks ago comes another which promises to eclipse in importance anything before discovered in that mine or in the camp. In the old west drift, 200 feet below the surface, a body of copper pyrites was encountered on Tuesday morning.

The first carload of electric motor machinery has been delivered at the Yellow Jacket and Belcher hoisting works in Gold Hill. Other shipments are in transit from manufacturers of electrical motor plants on the Atlantic side of the continent and by the early part of next month will be in position and humming with energy transmitted from the dynamo plant at Floriston.

Talking Up the Project.

Acting upon the suggestion made in yesterday's JOURNAL, a movement has been put on foot to organize a mining company, the stockholders in which will be legion.

The group of local business men who are fathering the proposition believe that there will be no difficulty in floating the project. At least one hundred people should be identified with the enterprise. They will each receive from one to ten shares of stock, upon which a maximum monthly assessment of one dollar will be levied.

This sum will be expended in sinking a deep shaft on the most favorable appearing site on the big dyke. The purpose will be to prove whether or not the widely disseminated values are concentrated at a depth of several hundred feet sufficiently to constitute a paying lead.

In a day or two a citizens' meeting will be called and the proposition laid before our people.

Editor's Awful Plight.

F. M. Higgins, Editor Seneca, (Ill.), News, was afflicted for years with Piles that no doctor or remedy helped until he tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve. He writes two boxes wholly cured him. It's the surest Pile cure on earth and the best salve in the world. Cures guaranteed. Only 25 cents. Sold by S. J. Hodgkinson's druggist.

Failed to Pass.

The county board of school examiners issued no certificates as a sequel to the tests given last week. The two applicants failed by a few points to reach the general average percentage required by the board.

Feed the Inner Man.

The best and choicest edibles in this city can be had at Cunningham & Ferguson's grocery. This firm sells fresh and up-to-date goods.

BRIEF WIRED WORDS.

Captain Healey of the U. S. Cutter McCulloch has become insane.

The Treasury Department gives out a letter stating that Cape Nome is rapidly becoming depleted of gold. There is no work for nine-tenths of the men there.

Details of the murder of the Russian Minister by the Boxers are revolting. He is said to have been tortured, boiled alive and his body thrown to the dogs.

The Proper Spirit.

At least two prospectors in this city have the determination and energy to recover from a blank assay and dig a hole somewhere else. Their names are Uddike and Mickell.

Whenever news comes of a fresh discovery these partners get up in the middle of the night and light out. They were right on the heels of the discoverer of Copper Golob. They grabbed a Wedekind extension, and were in the van of the Alam creek rush.

The Fire Record.

Yesterday afternoon at 2:30 a stable on the P. J. Kelley ranch four miles northeast of town was burned. It is not learned how the fire originated.

Only a few months ago the residence of Mr. Kelley's son on the next ranch was destroyed by fire. The Kelley family have been extremely unfortunate in this regard.

VAN DUZER ON POLITICS

He Has Something to Say Concerning the Doings of C. C. Wallace.

The balance of the interview with Mr. Van Duzer, which was "continued in our next" is as follows:

When asked whether or not he would be a candidate this fall, he said in due time he would make announcement through his home papers, and while he neither affirmed nor denied his candidacy, he showed that if he was a candidate there would be a sensational campaign on his part. Mr. Van Duzer said Black Wallace had announced that he would drive him from the county and was already engaged in importing candidates to oppose.

"I am tired of the domination of this man Wallace in Nevada politics, his control of men to corrupt the policies and paralyze the industries of Nevada. Mr. Wallace is now sending his agents through the State to prevent fusion, and also has other agents quietly pushing the lottery scheme.

"I have lived in Nevada 32 years, my home is here, my interests are here, every hope and ambition I have is centered in the State. Yet the young men of Nevada find their opportunities limited by the corrupt system followed by this man Wallace, and for a young man to succeed politically he has either to submit his manhood to the yoke of Wallace or quit. I propose to do neither.

"The political and industrial reformation which should have taken place in Nevada years ago has been prevented by the corrupt system of politics which has made baseness the chief rule and destroyed the individuality of those who mean well.

"We need a new Constitution. Wallace does not want it. His power to control Nevada would be curtailed.

"The Legislature should adjust taxation in Nevada. The valuation should be raised and the rate lowered. The Southern Pacific ought to be assessed $20,000 a mile. Wallace, in the interest of the Southern Pacific controls our Legislature.

"We should pass a maximum freight and passenger rate in Nevada. Yet a Nevada Legislature has never had power or courage to do so.

"Nevada ought to make it a felony for a public official to ride on a pass.

"She ought to create a State Board of equalization.

Reno should be made a terminal, freight point.

"Yet each of the above propositions, the passage of any one or all of which would largely contribute to a new lease of life for Nevada, is opposed by Wallace, and hitherto any man with the temerity to advocate these propositions has been quietly sat upon by Mr. Wallace.

"As for myself I propose to vigorously agitate the taxation, railroad and pass question—to oppose Wallace domination in Nevada, and am going to carry the question home to my own constituents and see whether or not any man who has the courage to express an honest sentiment for his State shall be drawn from public life by a man whose business is rotten politics, whose methods are corruption, who supports only such men as he can own, and attempts to destroy politically any man who raises his voice for individualism, freedom and State development."

Mr. Van Duzer is now on his way to California to visit the various county seats through which the Southern Pacific runs and investigate the various systems of taxation and rates of assessment per mile, after which he will spend a few days in Sacramento looking over State Controller books and will also examine the testimony in the investigations made before the United States District court regarding the valuation of the Southern Pacific railroad per mile.

"I am going to return to Nevada and insist upon a valuation of $15,000 per mile for the Southern Pacific in Nevada," remarked Mr. Van Duzer, "and whether or not I am a candidate for office this fall I propose to vigorously agitate those questions, the solution of which means the prosperity of Nevada."
